Conservative Party To Be "Scuttled"?

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28.—The historic Conservative Party is to be scuttled at the coming convention if the secret and well-laid plans of the "old guard" are successful, it was learned from reliable quarters here Saturday.

Senator Halliwell, Montreal, is in charge of the Quebec delegation. It has been stated that the senator, who is a millionaire, is financing the trip and is one of the prime movers, with Senator A. D. McLean, Vancouver, in backing the "unanimous call" for Premier John Bracken of Manitoba for the leadership of a new National Party. The name Conservative would be dropped.

MEIGHEN TO WITHDRAW

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, present Conservative leader, is to be the keynote speaker and will withdraw from the leadership and support Premier Bracken.

The Toronto Globe and Mail and powerful Tory newspapers are in the scheme to ditch the Conservative Party and launch the proposed National Party.

The "old guard" is convinced that the Port Hope convention, with its advanced social reform program, cannot be accepted.

Negotiations are pending to have M. A. MacPherson, Regina, who is intensely popular with the rank and file of the Conservative Party in Canada, withdraw his name for leadership and support the new proposed National Party.

A fight is predicted on the floor of the convention by the young, progressive-minded Conservatives against the scuttling of the Conservative Party.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 28.—

(CP)—Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce in the Bennett administration and later leader of the Conservative Party, said here today he will be a candidate for the Conservative leadership at the party convention in Winnipeg opening Dec. 8.

Mr. Stevens said he is opposed to any movement for abandoning the traditional name and policies of the Conservative Party and added he will support the convention for a "strongly progressive" party, essentially Conservative, but designed to meet the new economic concept.

Prominent East

Executive Dies

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—A prominent Hamilton lawyer died here today of a heart attack.

Mr. Hendrie, 71, prominent in Canadian transportation affairs and well known racehorse breeder. Native of Hamilton, he was a member of a family which contributed much to the business, military and sport life of Canada.

Mr. Hendrie was on his way to Toronto when he was taken off the train at New York City and removed to hospital where he died.

Powerful Snow Blower Keeps Airport Runways Clear

Most of the city of Edmonton was tied up in the unprecedented blizzard of two weeks ago but Capt. James Bell, manager of the municipal airport, didn't worry much. And above is seen the reason for Capt. Bell's lack of concern over things in and around Edmonton's modern airport. Sending the tall white plume of snow high in the air is a Sicard snow blower, the powerful machine used for snow clearance at the airport. Slung on a truck body the Sicard snow blower has a worm drive, similar to the ordinary kitchen meat grinder at the front. This literally swallows the snow in the path of the vehicle. A huge fan, operated by a 200 horsepower diesel engine, mounted on the back of the chassis, then blows the snow in any direction desired. Capt. Bell states that 23,000 cubic yards of snow were removed from runways at the airport in a few hours by this machine. Aircraft were grounded by the storm on the Sunday of the blizzard, but by 3 p.m. on Monday all runways were clear of snow and the airfield was in full operation again, thanks to the Sicard snow blower. The machine is manufactured in Montreal. Bill Watson and A. Scott are the regular operators of this wizard machine, although all airport employees are capable of operating the snow blower in a pinch.

Evacuation of Great

Air Base in France

Ordered by Germans

By EDWARD W. BEATHE

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(BUP)—Germany, tightening its grip on French Mediterranean defence areas, has ordered the complete evacuation of the great air force base at Istres, near Toulon, the German-controlled Paris radio said today.

Possession of the base would give the Germans a new aerial defence stronghold which they might develop to resist any Allied attack on Corsica or Sardinia, and would enable their planes to operate over a wide area of the Mediterranean between Spain and Italy.

(The British radio, heard by CBS in New York, reported that at Toulon the Germans had arrested Admiral Jean De Laborde, fleet commander, and all naval officers. Laborde was quoted as having warned the Germans recently that when they demanded access to his ships: "I shall open fire on anyone who tries to board our naval vessels." Then, it was said, he reported to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain at 10 a.m.: "The entire fleet at Toulon has ceased to exist.")

OFFICIALS DISMISSED

The newspaper Evening News here reported that all Vichy government officials had been dismissed except Marshal Petain.

The usually well-informed press association reported that Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, would go to the United States soon for conversations expected to amount to much of the French political difficulties in North Africa.

Allied quarters, awaiting further news, are reported to be

Little's Task

Futile Without

Powers Asked

By GRANT CLEGG

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 28.—Publication of the "proposals" which resulted on November 18 in Elliott Little's resignation make three points clear:

Mr. Little believed that his job was to coordinate the manpower policies of the government. His belief, apparently, stemmed from the dictionary meaning of the word coordinate — "to bring parts into proper relation." He was entitled so to think because the order-in-council (PC 2534 of March 25, 1942) appointing him said: "It shall be the duty of the director of national selective service to coordinate the policies and activities of the department and agencies of the government of Canada which affect or relate to the demand for the supply of labor requisite to the prosecution of the war."

He was also entitled to think so because the scuttling of the main French fleet at Toulon.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and all four major United States networks announced they will carry the broadcast.

War Summary

Europe: A fast-developing case of defensive jitter not far removed from panic is plaguing Hitler. That is implicit in the dubious move at Toulon, whatever his actual motive, that desperate step is an open confession of weakness. It gives quick confirmation to jubilant Allied assertions that the initiative has been wrested from Germany in an assault in a global war in a matter of weeks.

Conflicting reports spread confusion as to the exact number of ships sunk out of the squadron of 62 warships, including three battleships, sunk at Toulon, and 62 warships. A British broadcast declared "some French destroyers" escaped and might be en route to join the Allies in North Africa.

Swiss reports said two German submarines had slipped out of the harbor.

North Africa: British, United States and French troops were reported advancing in an assault against the Axis in Tunisia today. The British Air Force has definitely left its defence positions for the offensive.

Swiss reports said Allied troops had advanced within 12 miles of Tunis, the capital, southern anchor of the Axis fortified zone along the northeast coast of Tunisia.

American and Italian troops knew that Allied troops had started hammering a wedge between Tunis and Bizerte in an attempt to split the two key Axis strongholds following a clash between German and Italian troops.

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A French submarine which escaped from Toulon when the Germans marched in here at Barcelona at 1:30 p.m. today, the commander of the vessel advised the submarine's captain he must leave within 48 hours or face internment according to international law.

Reconstruction

Is Announced

"Prepare for victory—not later than now." This is to be the keynote of a four-day conference on problems of postwar reconstruction, Premier Albert Sarraute, held in Calgary, Dec. 15 and 16, the main conference opens at McDougall church in Edmonton Tuesday on the evening of Dec. 15.

The other groups sent to the bottom were loaded with food stores. One of the damaged ships was a well-armed vessel of 10,000 tons, the Admiralty said.

A medium transport carrier was torpedoed off North Africa, near Tripoli, and burned at sea before finally going down, the Admiralty said.

Previously, other Axis vessels and troop-laden aircraft had been destroyed by British naval and air units on the same route.

Thrown Back

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Allied forces in Tunisia have repulsed an enemy counter-attack at Tebourba, destroying 10 Axis tanks. United States department communications announced today.

The French Air Corps said the enemy is generally on the defensive in the Tunisia desert. The Allies had overcome strong German and Italian resistance and were within 10 miles of Tunis.

Foiled

If Herr Hitler wants the Vichy fleet he will have to raise it from the bottom of Toulon harbor. Rather than let the ships fall into his hands, the French crews scuttled them, also blowing up ammunition dumps and other military supplies.

Admiral Darlan is no doubt a man behind the scenes. He has good reason to prefer that the ships should be sunk rather than have Laval turn them over to Hitler or Mussolini. For this thing, he is right. But, whom Darlan is as cordially as he does the "English". For another, Darlan has burned his bridges, and for his own safety is now bound to stay in Toulon to wreck the Axis. He has no desire to fall into the clutches of the gestapo.

Hitler's explanation that he tried to seize the fleet because it was a threat to sail away and join the Allies may be believed by Fétain. It will fool nobody else. If the officers had any such plan in mind they would not have waited until Nazi planes had been established about the port in such numbers as to make departure impossible.

The true explanation lies in the Hitler record. He tried to seize the warships as he has seized everything else inside and outside France, and which he can get his hands that would be of service to him. The French crews "beat him to the punch", probably because they were not Darlan, and sank some or all of the ships.

Through chinks in the censored statements it appears that there was more or less fighting when the German and Italian troops moved into the harbor, and whether the beginning of the long overdue uprising, will appear in time. The Allies inspired one, will inspire Toulon might touch off another.

The world will not fail to mark down against Hitler the deaths of the brave men who died on the ships at Toulon, and who, in the end, they foiled the trickster at the cost of their lives, choosing to die rather than that their guns should be turned against the friends of France.

It's In Being" Now

Up until little more than three months ago Navy Week was rather meaningless term. Canada at that time hadn't made of a navy, only a few destroyers and two or three antiquated submarines which were used for training purposes. The general public took little interest in our miniature fleet, and not a few regarded it as a waste of time and money to keep the ships manned and conditioned.

The war changed all that. The navy began to grow, and public interest grew with it. The "tin pots" grew in prestige and recognized usefulness in their own numbers. Now they are hundreds strong, with a war record of which Canadians are justly proud. Navy Week means something now. "The Navy's Here," a sizable and highly effective reality.

Last week ago it was announced that our warships have been doing 45 per cent of the convoy work along the North Atlantic lanes. Later came the news that 17 of our corvettes are doing their bit along the coast of North Africa. It will not be strange if we hear of them in even more remote theaters of the war.

We haven't any doubt that they will be able to take them after the war, and that was not the type of craft most urgently needed.

The little warships have come into prominence in this war, to a degree that has surprised believers in the battleship as the master of the sea.

The airplane and the submarine are responsible. The large ship cannot dog quickly to avoid air attack, and it offers a broad target for torpedoes. The small swift vessel can take sharper curves than an airplane, and a submarine must get with-in range to make a torpedo attack successful.

Since any ship large enough to carry attack guns and depth charges can fight these antagonists, the shipyards are turning out the smaller craft in hundreds. There are at the present time a hundred landing and on order in Canadian yards alone, while Canada's 40,000 navymen are serving on ships of which the largest is the destroyer.

Without giving the enemy any definite information, Hon. Angus MacDonald says the First Lord of the Admiralty was "probably below the mark when he credited Canadian ships with being the only vessels to take sharper curves than an airplane, and a submarine must get with-in range to make a torpedo attack successful."

Our little boats, no bigger than those sailed by Drake and Columbus, are making good. They get their subs, and usually they are somewhere else when an airman's bomb arrives.

Wartime Trade

In the first ten months of this year Canada's exports to the United States were $1,900,000,000, twice the volume of 1939, and $250,000,000 more than for the whole of last year.

The balance of trade has been in our favor during the ten months, to the amount of $525,000,000. This was the excess of our exports over our imports, and represents credit standing to our account abroad.

Because of war conditions, the bulk of our exports have been munitions and war material, and such entered largely into our imports also. Munitions and war material are not foreign, because the information might be useful to the enemy.

These figures do not of course mean in wartime what they would mean in peacetime. We are sending a great deal of our goods to countries which need them and because they need them, not because the goods are profitable. Our exports are not for profit. What our favorable balance of trade will actually be worth only the future can show. That will depend on the terms of the settlement and on the ability of our customers to pay.

No Allied country is denied Canadian supplies of weapons or food because it cannot pay or give gold-enclosed security. These things are being sent where they are required, and in whatever quantities can be spared and transported. The accounts can be totaled up and the paying arranged later. Nothing matters now but victory—in China or Russia or North Africa or elsewhere.

Maybe there is some exaggeration, but those stories of Nazi soldiers mutinying in Norway are coming too often to be wholly false.

That Russian prisoners are getting to have so many jaws within jaws it must seem like a maze to Nazis running in circles looking for the way out.

At New Westminster a judge cut the furs in half until the landlady gets the returns in his apartment house fixed. Another judge, who proves that rent control "works".

Hon. Angus MacDonald has given out the facts as to the sinkings in the St. Lawrence river and gulf. Fourteen ships have been torpedoed and lost in the river, and five in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and St. Lawrence Strait. The Minister states also that the rumors regarding the Caribou were unfounded, "probably because they were not Darlan, and sank some or all of the ships."

Through chinks in the censored statements it appears that there was more or less fighting when the German and Italian troops moved into the harbor, and whether the beginning of the long overdue uprising, will appear in time. The Allies inspired one, will inspire Toulon might touch off another.

The world will not fail to mark down against Hitler the deaths of the brave men who died on the ships at Toulon, and who, in the end, they foiled the trickster at the cost of their lives, choosing to die rather than that their guns should be turned against the friends of France.

Acting upon the advice of Sir John Abbott, His Excellency has accepted the resignation of Sir John Abbott."

Canadians Should Be Very

Clear on Purposes and Aims of Empire

By HAROLD L. WEIR

There have been a number of letters asking me to amplify remarks I have made in this column as to the time to time on British imperialism.

I myself believe that the subject should be discussed, here as elsewhere, very fully and completely. The utmost frankness should prevail, in this matter, and only in this way can we arrive at a convincing opinion as to the merits of the British Empire, but that we ourselves may not fall into bigotry, in an attempt to do so.

It is in closing our minds stubbornly to the arguments advanced against it. If there are abuses in the operation of British imperialism, we should stand ready to correct them. If we are to champion the benignity of our imperialism, we should do so, not on mere blind faith, but through a clear and unflinching conviction.

Before the war, British imperialism, to the majority of us, was no more than a phrase about which we heard in the newspapers. It would have been as difficult to secure a succinct and unimpaired definition of imperialism as it would have been to define democracy.

But since the war, particularly in the last few months, imperialism has become a working reality. It has become a reality to which we are all called upon to give our attention.

Some of our best friends have revealed a shocking system of exploitation. To our imagination, we have found that a system of exploitation, which we have accepted as a part of our national philosophy, has been revealed to us as a system of exploitation, which we have accepted as a part of our national philosophy.

No Reproach Attaches Itself to Our Imperialism

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Never Imposes Taxes on Britain's

By HAROLD L. WEIR

There have been a number of letters asking me to amplify remarks I have made in this column as to the time to time on British imperialism.

I myself believe that the subject should be discussed, here as elsewhere, very fully and completely. The utmost frankness should prevail, in this matter, and only in this way can we arrive at a convincing opinion as to the merits of the British Empire, but that we ourselves may not fall into bigotry, in an attempt to do so.

It is in closing our minds stubbornly to the arguments advanced against it. If there are abuses in the operation of British imperialism, we should stand ready to correct them. If we are to champion the benignity of our imperialism, we should do so, not on mere blind faith, but through a clear and unflinching conviction.

Before the war, British imperialism, to the majority of us, was no more than a phrase about which we heard in the newspapers. It would have been as difficult to secure a succinct and unimpaired definition of imperialism as it would have been to define democracy.

But since the war, particularly in the last few months, imperialism has become a working reality. It has become a reality to which we are all called upon to give our attention.

Some of our best friends have revealed a shocking system of exploitation. To our imagination, we have found that a system of exploitation, which we have accepted as a part of our national philosophy, has been revealed to us as a system of exploitation, which we have accepted as a part of our national philosophy.

The world will not fail to mark down against Hitler the deaths of the brave men who died on the ships at Toulon, and who, in the end, they foiled the trickster at the cost of their lives, choosing to die rather than that their guns should be turned against the friends of France.

The following statement has been given out at Ottawa: "The Governor General has received with great regret a letter from Sir John Abbott stating that he is compelled, by the state of his health, to resign his office. Acting upon the advice of Sir John Abbott, His Excellency has accepted the resignation of Sir John Abbott."

Major And Minor Notes

UNEXPECTED, unpremeditated demise of the No. 1 German tank hit of the day was a surprise about by the pulverizing offensive of the British 8th Army in Libya. Not only has Lt. Gen. Bernard Montgomery's steamroller drive routed and disintegrated the German armor, but it has also organized the highly-organized German armor into a highly-organized German armor.

IN AFRIKA, it is not the German armor that is the surprise, but the fact that the German armor is still in the hands of the British 8th Army. The German armor is still in the hands of the British 8th Army, and the British 8th Army is still in the hands of the German armor.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(BUP)—With the war and the Cards in his face, Little Mel Ott resembled an outfielder playing in quicksand when he coaxed into town from New Orleans. He knew what he wanted to do—where he wanted to go—but the current situation was slowing him and bewildering him.

Modest Mel, who lifted the Giants from fifth to third place in his first season as player-manager of the New York club, was trying to pave the way for a team that could beat the world champion St. Louis outfit next season and take the National League flag at least.

Ott, sub-norized from weeks of hibernating in Louisiana, declared frankly that the Cardinals were the team to beat in 1943 because they consequently would exercise service demands with a squad almost as strong as that which won the pennant last year. But the New York Yankees in the last world series, Ott said, "The recent Cardinals were the strongest and sharpest during my 16 years in the circuit. They were a young club, braced with speed and power. And it looks as if they won't lose much strength before the 1943 campaign."

Ott emphasized that most hot-shoe managers, including the Cardinals to be hard hit by the draft because their players generally were young. But he stressed that "they're young, alright, but most of them are married, and that's a thing. It may be a long time before those boys are ready for service. Brooklyn, for example, has an older club. But the Dodgers are almost entirely unattached. I don't think they'll be any harder hit by service necessities."

Manager Mel admitted that Eno Slaughter and Johnny Beasley already have found uniform, and that Croesy Cressly and Terry Brown will go into service soon. But he warned, "The Cardinals still have a strong, dangerous club."

YOUTH, MARSHALL GONE
Ott, who came to New York to coach with Giants officials in preparation for next week's major league meeting at Chicago, also admitted that the Giants would lose men to the services—just how many he couldn't say. The '42 squad, outfielders Babe Young and Willard Marshall already have gone, Marshall pitcher Hal Schumacher and Finger Day. Scutts probably will go soon.

The brown-haired pilot said he was figuring tentatively on the following lineup: infield, Johnny Mize, Nick Witte, Billy Jurges and Sid Gordon (left); outfield, Jimmie Smith, Harry Danning would be first string catcher.

Ott pointed out, however, that Mize, Witte, Gordon and Danning are married but have no children, and hence may be married away before the baseball season opens in mid-April.

THIRD BASE PROBLEM
At the current chaffing, Ott's major problem rests at third base. Little Mel believes that Sid Gordon, who played with the Giants for the last week of the '42 season, will kiss off the hot-corner assignment.

But Mel knows that if Gordon fails to live up to expectations, the infield situation will be very drab, indeed. In addition, Manager Mel could use a right-handed pitcher of dependability, and a good-infielder.

Ott denied rumors that he is considering Freddie Fitzsimmons as the Giants' coach. He explained that Fitz still is the property of the Dodgers, and that Ott can't talk over this situation with any National League club until the league has gone into hibernation at Chicago, starting Tuesday.

Canadians Will Practice Monday
Canadians will hold their first practice of the season at 11:30 street car on Monday night from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

A cordial invitation to all youth desiring a tryout is issued by officials of the Canadian Amateur Club.

Warwick Changes Mind

More Passing, Less Power Feature R.C.A.F.-Bombers

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Bert Warwick, assistant coach of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F.-Bombers, western football champions, has changed his story and, he thinks, for a good reason.

A month ago on a visit to Toronto he was quoted as saying Lew Hayman's Hurricanes could trim any of the three senior Winnipeg teams.

But since head coach Reg Threlfall selected his all-star aggregation from the league to represent the west, Warwick admits he has good reason to change his story.

If the western champions meet the Hurricanes in the national final Dec. 5 he now believes the contest will be "pretty even."

The Toronto squad is favored over the U.S. R.C.A.F. in the eastern final today.

Warwick says the R.C.A.F.-Bombers, reputed to be the most deceptive and versatile unit of the Winnipeg Football Club, will give the eastern champions a real battle. The game will be played at Toronto.

GAIN DECEPTION
He says R.C.A.F.-Bombers this year have sacrificed a little power to gain deception, a style of play unfamiliar to the strictly power teams of other years.

Warwick admits the team lacked stiff competition and hasn't the kind of practice program of the champions from Winnipeg but he thinks Hurricanes also will not stack up as equal to Hayman's Toronto Argonaut gridders of the year.

This year the east will see a western team that hasn't had a power play for ever move but a team that has been drilled on fast-breaking maneuvers with running attack mixed in with a strong aerial offense. "Our greatest power lies in the aerial route," Warwick said.

Forward-passing ace P.O. Bob Fritz, former playing-coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Wayne Shiley who carried the bulk of the load in this department leading to the Blue Bombers' division victory last year.

In substituting a "T" formation for a former wing backfield setup, Coach Threlfall and Warwick stuck to the western style of blocking. Warwick says shoulder blocking is preferred to hip blocking used in the east because the player makes the block on the ground and has less chance of being thrown off balance.

Satisfied with the offensive style the R.C.A.F.-Bombers chief worry seems to be what style of defence to use in the east-west game. Defensive work has been postponed until the team arrives in Toronto next Thursday.

Georgia Clubs Battle Army-Navy Annual Classic Will Draw Less Than 20,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Some of the settings may be different from previous years, but today's United States College football games are the traditional last-of-November type with bow bids, sectional and inter-sectional titles up for grabs.

Biggest change in setting, under the Army-Navy game, shifted to Tinsy Thompson stadium at Annapolis, Md., where by President Roosevelt to conserve rubber, gas, and working hours.

Less than 20,000 spectators are expected to wander into the Navy square grounds to see the 1942 game which saw the Midshipmen to their third straight triumph at Philadelphia year ago.

Athens, Ga., will be host to 40,000 for meeting between unbeaten Georgia and all-winning Georgia Tech. The unofficial southern conference flag and top consideration for all Bowl games are involved.

Seattle's fray may determine the half of the Rose Bowl program with Washington state sending a triumph over Washington for the fifth loop decision and at least a share of the Pacific coast crown.

Boston College, voted the country's best college team last week, barges into Holy Cross with a perfect season and a sugar bowl invitation as the prize.

The south's first bowl bid on which a possible Bowl bid hinge, Tennessee takes on the Commodores of Vanderbilt and a decisive triumph for the Tennessee Vols would probably lead to an invitation.

Dan's invasion of Southern California is expected to be witnessed by 80,000 spectators, the largest throng of the day, while Georgia Navy takes on Alabama.

Harvard Coach Enlists in Navy
BOSTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—After being sworn into the United States Naval Reserve as a Lieutenant Commander, Richard C. Harkness (Dick) Harkness, head football coach at Harvard, said he "didn't know" how his departure would affect the university's future gridiron plans.

When asked if Harkness' departure meant the end of football at Harvard for the duration of the war, the spokesman replied, "Obviously, intercollegiate athletics will be greatly modified as the result of war developments but actual plans await announcement of Army and Navy programs for use of the colleges."

PROBLEM ON AGENDA FOR NEXT MEETING

University to Arrange Post-War Courses for Veterans

Presides

Mr. Justice Frank Ford, of the Alberta supreme court, and Chancellor of the University of Alberta, who presided at a meeting of the University Senate Friday, at which important matters were discussed.

Senate Plans Training

For Students Serving In Forces, Industries

The senate of the University of Alberta will consider the question of training students who return from the armed forces and war industries after the war and who desire to complete their education, it was decided at a meeting of the senate Friday.

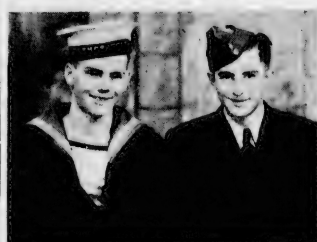

A statement authorized by Hon. Mr. Justice Frank Ford, chancellor of the university, and issued following the meeting, said, in part:

"There was considerable discussion on the problems which will face higher education in the immediate post-war period. It was expected that a very large number of returning service men and women, as well as those discharged from war industries, will desire to complete their education program, interrupted in many cases by the war. It was decided to place upon the agenda of the next meeting of the senate the question of planning to accommodate and train these students to best advantage."

Fusiliers Receive Training Officer

Appointed training officer for the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, Capt. N. Moullet, from M.D. 13 headquarters, Calgary, will arrive in Edmonton next week to take over his new duties. With the arrival here of Capt. Moullet there will be two officers on full time service with the battalion. Capt. Allan Gillies, who was appointed adjutant of the unit some weeks ago, is the other officer on full time duty.

Brothers in Two Services

L.A.C. KIMBALL MADILL, above, and OS. JOHN MADILL, below, are the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Madill, Belmont Road. OS. John is now on active service with His Majesty's forces. OS. John Madill, R.C.N.V.R., now stationed at a western Canadian port, was born in Edmonton, and received his education at Parkdale Public school, and Eastwood High school. He has been with the navy since August. L.A.C. Kimball Madill, R.C.A.F., radio technician, has recently arrived overseas. He was born at Bassano and received his education at Eastwood High school. Mr. and Mrs. Madill have been residents in Edmonton for the last 30 years.

School Walkout

Will be Probed Early in Week

"Walkout" of 18 girls at the St. Albert high school earlier this week, will be investigated by the provincial department of education early next week, it was learned from an official of the department Saturday.

It was reported that all the girls who had walked out were now back at their classes. While no formal complaint had been lodged with the department in connection with the walkout, a departmental official said that the St. Albert school board had made formal application for an investigation, which will be made early next week.

Several Firms

Urge Citizens To Shop Early

Although the city council has authorized Edmonton stores to remain open three evenings for the convenience of shoppers during Christmas week, several large firms have decided it will be more in the interests of the war effort at this critical period to close at the regular hour.

The managers of the stores which will remain closed each evening of Christmas week announced that their decisions were made with the idea of co-operating with the government fully in the conservation of manpower, and with assisting Edmonton's street railway in solving the growing problem of transportation.

The stores that will remain closed are appealing to customers to compensate by planning to do more gift shopping in the mornings and early afternoon, when street cars are less crowded.

The following firms have decided to close at regular hours during Christmas week: The T. Eaton Company (Western Limited); Hudson's Bay Company; Johnstone Walker Limited; C. Woodwards Limited; Campbell Furniture Co. Ltd.; Creston Furniture Co. Ltd.; Henry, Graham and Reid, Limited; National Home Furniture Co. Ltd.; Polinsky Furniture Store and Sterling Furniture Ltd.

AROUND THE TOWN

Walter P. Zeller, Montreal, president of Zeller's Ltd., will be guest speaker at the Edmonton Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting at the St. Edwards hotel Monday noon. Topic of his address will be "Post-War Trends."

Pte. David S. Kline, of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant, it was announced Saturday at military headquarters in Calgary. Sgt. Kline was an optometrist in Edmonton previous to his enlistment in the army in June of this year. He is a former member of the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers.

Flying Officer G. King is expected to arrive in Edmonton next week. He is a member of the R.C.A.F. mobile recruiting unit that will tour the city next week. AND, Gladys Elliott, of the Women's Division, will accompany the party and interview women. The army will be represented by a recruiting sergeant. Towns to be visited include Fort Saskatchewan, Lamont, Minburn, Lloydminster, Vegreville, Laro, Hanley, Innisfree, Manville and Nitroville.

A meeting of the properly constituted committee of the Edmonton Public School Board will take place Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 8 p.m. in the basement of the Technical High school. The board will meet immediately following the meeting of the committee.

Mr. James Macgregor and sons, Robert and Jim, will arrive here Monday from Regina, Sask., to make their home at 8127 112 avenue. Mr. Macgregor was transferred here the first part of November to act as chief clerk to the district passenger agent of the C.N.R. He had held a similar position in Regina, where they lived for 14 years.

Reorganization of the local unemployment insurance offices is under way to make possible more efficient service in taking place this week. William Carroll, director, stated. Both men's and women's departments will be arranged in sections, each one to be headed by a senior officer. Applicants for work will now be classified as either business and professional, heavy industries, workers, juvenile, or disabled, and so on.

Gettng Around

Wendell Wilkie stirred up quite a controversy recently when he announced that our military experts should not be beyond criticism by mere civilians. Of course there are many who are able to advance good reasons why such criticism should not be permitted. But why has this war produced so many so-called "typewriter strategists" and civilian "experts?"

"We confess we are not qualified to give the answer, but in searching for reasons for so many 'amateurish' theories about how we think it possible that the answer may be found in the nature of this new and terrible war itself."

designated to the respective sections for interviewing.

Sgt. Jack Grossman, who has been in the city for some time, is a recruiting center here for 18 months, left Friday night for Moose, where he has been posted as the administration staff of the service flying training school there.

A further appeal to car owners to remove their cars from one-way streets was issued Saturday by Chief Constable Matt Blackwood. Chief Blackwood stated that one summons was issued Friday against an owner who failed to remove the vehicle.

First run of the new daily service of Northern Alberta railways will be made Sunday, when a passenger train leaves here at 2:30 p.m., arriving in Dawson Creek, Monday at 2:30 p.m. The first train out of Dawson Creek will leave that town, the railroad, at 7:30 a.m. Monday, arriving in Edmonton at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday. Passenger service from Medicine Hat to Lethbridge, on the north side of the Peace River, is being increased from two to three trains weekly.

J. A. Rogers of Ottawa, newly-appointed C.N.R. chief for the Alberta district in the capacity of assistant general superintendent, is expected to arrive in the city Monday. He was resident engineer here for the Mackenzie and Mann Railway Company 31 years ago, and was in Edmonton from 1911 until 1916 as division engineer at Saskatoon. After serving in that position until 1918, he returned to railway work as superintendent for the C.N.R. at Prince Albert, Sask. He was transferred to Ottawa in 1928.

Reserve Army Units Rehearse Sunday
All Reserve Army personnel in the city are reminded of the inspection rehearsal parade to be held Sunday morning at the Prince of Wales armory, starting at 10 a.m.

The rehearsal is for the purpose of preparing the Reserve Army units for the inspection here on the evening of Dec. 3 by Maj.-Gen. B. W. Browne, D.S.O., M.C., director general of the Reserve Army.

The band of the 2nd Bn. Edmonton Regiment and the bugle band of the 2nd Bn. Edmonton Fusiliers also will attend the rehearsal.

Buchanan United
The Rev. Dennis Mann, chairman of the Buchanan United Presbyterian Church of Canada, will speak Sunday evening, at the 10 o'clock service of Buchanan United church of All Peoples, Mission.

The annual supper, followed by a program of movies, will be held Monday.

Here's how P/O Beurling, Brilliant Fighter Pilot, Spends his Leave, Lots of Milk, Hot Dogs and the Occasional "Flip" Suit Canadian Ace

P/O George Beurling wants everyone to play a full part in the war so he goes on the air, although he dislikes publicity, to convey his message to youth.

This Canadian hero, with 29 enemy planes to his credit, was not always the dashing, helmeted airman, but even at 18 months (left) he wanted to get off the ground for a 1st ascent. At 14 (right) he was "in there punching" as now.

The future winner of the DSO, DFC, DFM with bar dreamed of planes and built them as a youngster. He is shown here at 15 with some of his prized models, all self-propelled. The family album is well-stocked with such snapshots.

"Good old milk" is one of the things George is getting a lot of while home on leave. Brothers Richard (left) and David go for the cake — and the icing. "What would you like best of all?" asked his mother. "Hot dogs" replied George.

Beurling family is deeply religious. Bible is read every evening. Drinking and smoking are unknown in the house. "They don't mix with fighting planes" says George. David wanted to hear "about the whale", now steals forty winks.

"One of the things I like best about getting back home is meeting old school pals". Here friend Marjorie Davies gets shooting lesson from an expert. As a boy George did target practice on the farm with his father, a crack shot.

"My goodness, I'll be needing a secretary if this keeps up!" exclaimed Mrs. Beurling during the first week's rush of mail and wires from all over Canada.

"Buzz", as George is known at home, takes pride in father's paintings, offers advice when he's sketching planes. Beurling senior is commercial artist and likes to dabble about with paints at home. He and son George are great pals.

One of happiest reunions was at Curtiss-Reid flying school. Here he's with "Fiz" Champagne, his first instructor, Bill Oliver and best friend Ted Hogan.

During his leave P/O Beurling is devoting time to book he is writing on fighting tactics. He's shown here checking some of his data with Ted Hogan who is quoted in book. Former commercial flyer, Hogan now tests parachutes for RAF.

"Buzz" asked to go "for a flip" as soon as he got to his old flying club at Cartierville. He found Stinson a bit slow after handling "apits" over Malta. Marge Davies enjoyed first flight. "This kind of leave suits me", says RAF ace.

The Edge of Darkness

BY WILLIAM WOODS

THE STORY: Peter Ashen agrees that he will not reveal plans for peace, although he knows that the German, Russian, British, and American forces are all in the hands of the victors. In the end, the victors will be the victors.

CHAPTER V
IT IS NOT done yet. Gunnar told him dryly. There are many more things to think of. They must get a message out, nevertheless. Something may stop up, and we must be prepared for it. But the only reinforcements are to the south. They would have to come over the bridge. And in the bargain, if we have men with rifles down in the trees at the head of the bridge, the main thing is to choose our own time to fight when we want to, not when they do."

"You're in Norway, not in a flat country. They can move tanks only on the roads." "You'll climb tanks up the Seven Sisters?" "And as for the planes," said Gunnar, "they are only good against concentration. You can't bomb ten miles on a hillside under the trees. If we fight our own fight, we can make half their machinery useless in the valleys and towns, in the valleys, away from the roads, and open places. You don't win wars that way, but you'll make a hundred and fifty thousand men sick of our kind of war."

"You even win," said Hammer, "... in the end."

Gunnar stiffened. "They can be beaten," he said in a low voice.

Hold Everything

"One of course, is how the guns are to be delivered." The English will get in touch with you. There are hundreds of them in all through Norway. They keep in touch with submarines and small ships off shore." "So we must wait." The doctor poured his line importantly. "More details will have to be worked out when we know better how we stand. The main thing is that we are clear on policy. We are all together. Is that right?" "Ja, Ja." "You even win," said Hammer, "My son will be free. I'd tell you my 'Trayle' was in prison. But God bless him. Even so, my son says so. God bless him." "We choose men for each post. The only way is to be as exact as possible, and then even if a few things go wrong, that will not stop us from acting." "Caution is the main thing right now."

"What would you have us do now? We've waited for over a year. Now is our chance. The Russian winter is coming. Already they are stopped at Leningrad and Moscow in a few months they may be desperate. Do you want to fight only if you are sure you can win? Who knows but what even America will join the war? Who knows what will happen? Gunnar all up and down the coast, remember."

"When the revolt starts in a dozen places at once," said the doctor, "what do you think they'll do? Some place there has to be a beginning. And when the whole country is up in arms, don't you think we'll get English planes?" "They still have thousands of tanks."

"You're in Norway, not in a flat country. They can move tanks only on the roads." "You'll climb tanks up the Seven Sisters?"
